AFD Group is continuing its actions to improve health security at the national and regional levels, using a "One Health" approach, for which its expertise, technical and financial tools, and methods of intervention with trusted partners offer real added value. AFD therefore finances many projects that target support for integrated epidemiological surveillance (human, animal, including entomological, and environmental), in connection with the strengthening of laboratories and integrated networks at the national and regional levels, as well as support for innovation and technology transfer (South-South and North-South).
